RELIGIOUS DISCRIMINATION IS A REALITY.
IT'S TIME TO CHANGE
THAT.

Under state and federal laws, a landlord cannot discriminate against you because of your religion, or because of your ethnicity, race or national origin.

Here are some examples of possible housing discrimination:

“Wouldn't you be more comfortable living closer to a mosque?”

“I will show you neighborhoods where there are a couple of nice synagogues.”

It is against the law for a landlord to treat you differently because of your religion.

A landlord or real estate agent cannot, on the basis of religion:

- Refuse to rent an apartment to you
- Charge you more in rent or fees
- Place you in a different building or neighborhood
- Try to evict you
- Inquire about your religion
