Some discussion occurred about the entire length of John Street, which is inaccessible, but the problem in front of the church has been repaired. There was some discussion about the accessible entrance being open during service times for the church, but it was determined that it was beyond the scope of the commission’s work. If more issues are identified and brought before the commission, they will be discussed then.

iii. Commission Annual Report – Motion carried to adopt the report as written. (5:0:1).

b. Director of Human Rights & Disabilities

ii. DCU Center – Jayna Turchek sent a recommendation to Commissioner Moylan to change one of the 15 minute parking spaces along the DCU side of Foster Street to a HP drop-off spot with a curb. Several members commented that this is an example of a project that went forward without input from the Commission on Disability, and might have been avoided. Also, a reminder was stated that if members hear about any pertinent meetings being held that they let Jayna Turchek know to request member participation.

iii. Customer Service – Jayna Turchek is working with DPW to identify when disability related concerns are brought to DPW’s Customer Service.

RE: 2011-2012 Annual Report of the Commission on Disability

The Worcester Commission on Disability is pleased to submit this annual report to the City Manager to discuss our undertakings, accomplishments, conclusions and recommendations over the past year. Despite this having been a year of transitions, especially with respect to staffing for the Commission and the Office on Disabilities, we are pleased to report the following:

As a continuation of our interest in accessible voting and our work with the office of the City Clerk, in August and September 2011 members of the Commission on Disability conducted training sessions to train election wardens and clerks on the Americans with Disabilities Act, “people first” language, accessible voting requirements, and best practices. The Commission also worked with the Massachusetts Architectural Access Board regarding our concerns for accessibility at the City’s (now former) Anna Mara College polling location. We also wrote to local newspapers to share information about accessible voting, specifically highlighting the AutoMARK machines that are available at all Worcester polling locations. After elections, we provided feedback to the City Clerk regarding our firsthand observations as to the set-up of polling sites and the conduct of election workers.
One member of the Commission on Disability continued his three (3) years as liaison with the Human Rights Commission, sharing information with the two Commissions about bullying of the disabled and the fragile elderly, both in the City of Worcester and elsewhere.

Members of the Commission participated in the City’s Emergency Preparedness Taskforce, which helped evaluate the accessibility of proposed Worcester sheltering locations. Participation in the taskforce meant numerous location visits for Taskforce, and Commission, members. Commission members remain concerned about transportation under the City’s Emergency Preparedness plans.

The Commission also continued its work towards updating the City’s Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) Transition Plan. Self-assessments were distributed to various City departments in early 2011. One of the Commission’s major goals in the next twelve (12) months is to reconvene its ADA Transition Plan Subcommittee, as staffing permits, to evaluate the completed self-assessments and to make recommendations as to how to fully update the City’s plan.

As in years past, transportation is an ongoing theme for the Commission on Disability. Members regularly shared information about transportation concerns in Worcester. Members also attended, and then shared details of, the Transportation Planning Advisory Group that is hosted by the Worcester Regional Transit Authority (WRTA). We supported a local disability grass-roots group, REDD (Rights, Equality, and Dignity of the Disabled) in its efforts to reach the WRTA about its automated call-out system. We contacted the WRTA to express our support for functional needs assessments as part of the WRTA’s paratransit application process. We also met with WRTA Administrator Stephen F. O’Neil regarding the WRTA’s plans for a new transportation hub, and we provided feedback regarding visibility, accessibility, and restrooms, among other topics. Later, we were visited by Wendy Steinhilber and Jim Delage from PBSI (the WRTA’s paratransit brokerage service), who shared information about paratransit and accessible services offered by the WRTA. They shared information about local service, the application process, the service area and service limitations, and present/future projects for the WRTA. The Commission also reviewed usage of the City’s accessible taxicabs.

The Commission continued to share feedback with City officials regarding construction projects in the City of Worcester. For example, at our July 2011 meeting, we met with Joseph Borbone, Director of Traffic Engineering, to review plans for, and suggest improvements to, McKeon Road and Winthrop Street. The Commission requests that City officials continue to seek comment from the Commission on Disability regarding proposed construction projects. The Commission further requests the support of the City Manager in requiring City officials to seek Commission comment on those projects.

We also hosted guest speakers who could encourage public awareness of disability issues. For example, in August 2011, we were visited by Dr. Dale Magee, then Commissioner of Public Health, who provided the Commission with a Power Point overview of the Health of Worcester 2011 report.

Staff of the Office on Disabilities has kept the Commission up-to-date on the types of complaints that citizens have regarding disability-related issues. In response to one such complaint, the Commission has proposed a change in the City’s service animal ordinance; we look forward to working with the Law Department to finalize that ordinance and hope that the Department will consider extending free licenses to those who utilize companion animals for disability-based reasons. We have also continued to monitor the City’s response to a complaint received about accessibility of sidewalks relating to a church located on John Street.

Snow removal continues to be of interest to the members of the Commission on Disability. We had previously encouraged the members of City Council to reconsider a moratorium that had been passed that failed to guarantee that all sidewalks in Worcester would be cleared following a snowfall. This year, the Commission continued to remind the public, both at meetings and through a letter to local papers, about the importance of snow and ice removal and about what to do if a property owner has failed to fulfill snow and ice removal obligations.

The Commission has continued its discussions about accessible parking in Worcester, most notably focusing on handicap placard violations. The Commission contacted the Department of Public Works and Parks to encourage ticketing those who violation accessible parking laws, and provided follow-up information about areas where violations appear to be particularly high.

In response to public inquiry, the Commission reviewed a proposed policy that would address accessibility at temporary events in the City of Worcester. The proposal included suggestions, for example, about requiring events that use temporary bathrooms to also reserve accessible port-a-potties. The policy has been forwarded to the City Manager’s office for consideration.

We were delighted to meet with Mayor Joseph M. Petty at our May 2012 meeting, at which we described some of our goals and shared concerns about accessibility and inclusion in the City of Worcester. We invite our City Councilors, and other members of City government, to attend our meetings.

The Commission was pleased to provide input as to the number of accessible parking spots that should be allotted within the newly-renovated City Hall garage. We thank the City for increasing the number of accessible spots.

Following the departure of Fran Manocchio from the Office of Human Rights and Disabilities in January 2011, the Commission’s Chair (in conjunction with the Chairs of the Human Rights Commission and the Status on Women Advisory Committee) contacted both City Manager Michael V. O’Brien and then Mayor Joseph C. O’Brien to encourage the City to refill that position as swiftly as possible. After the decision was made to re-staff that position on a part-time basis, the Commission’s Chair participated in applicant interviews. The Commission is delighted to now be working with Jayna Turchek, Director, and commends Dawn Clark, Derek Brindisi, and Christina Andreoli for their hard work, willingness to provide support to the Commission, and dedication to disability and accessibility issues.

Although the Commission is pleased to be working with Ms. Clark and Ms. Turchek, the Commission notes that Office on Human Rights and Disabilities staffing is still less than what was available when these two offices were separately maintained. We encourage the City to continue increasing staffing so that these issues may be fully and holistically supported in Worcester. We also encourage the City to explore whether this Office could be supported by the use of volunteers or interns.

Finally, we request that the Office on Human Rights and Disabilities be moved, in its entirety, to City Hall. Not only is it disruptive to have Ms. Turchek and Ms. Clark in separate locations in the City, but also it is imperative that the services of this Office be located at a central location that is easily accessible by public transportation.

Respectfully submitted,

Rachel Shannon Brown
